CARD OF THANKS

CARD OF THANKS
We take this means to thank our neighbors, friends and relatives for every act of kindness and sympathy shown us and our father during his illness, death and burial. Many thanks to the Union Hill choir who furnished music for the funeral. All of us appreciate and thank every one who helped in any way, more than words can express.
—The Jones Family.

CARD OF THANKS
To my many friends:
I am sincerely and deeply appreciative of the thoughfulness of my friends during my recent illness. I am very garteful for the cards, remembrances, inquiries, flowers, the visits and many other manifestations of interest and goodwill.
CHAS. T. MOSES.

CARD OF THANKS
May we express our sincere appreciation for the kindness, sympathy, and help given us in the loss we suffered in the recent wind storm. Our neighbors and friends came in and helped us clean up the debris, repair roofs, and buildings. We hardly know how to express our appreciation for the help and words of comfort and encouragement, so we say to one and all, may God richly bless each one of you and may you have the very best in life. Sometimes it takes calamity and disaster to bring out the best in people and bind a community closer together in love and fellowship. Again we say, thanks so much.
Very sincerely,
—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Moore

CARD OF THANKS

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of dad, Mr. A. H. Mann, who passed away two years ago, April 30, 1956:
I walked today where flowers bloomed,
Where magic fingers had transformed the sod,
Azeleas wonderful were there.
But oh, much more,
I walked beside the Lord, our God.
Then when I sought to find some spirit near,
Who could the secret of his garden fair impart,
I came upon a gardener,
Skilled and wise,
And found both God and gardens in his heart.
Then when I sought to find the answer here,
To ease the ache and pain of these two years,
I knew it was my daddy God had called
To tend his garden there so sweet and fair.
—Mrs. Hunter Tolley,
Pamplin, Va.

The goal is to try to produce 200,000 pounds of milk per man per year, or 100 pounds of milk for every man-hour of labor on the milking herd. Too often, the farmers try to do something themselves the hard way to save money when they should think the problems through and either invest in equipment or take the time to work out a better way to do each job.

Every dairyman must use careful judgment in deciding whether the investment in a labor-saving device or rearrangement can be justified. For older dairymen, the saving in effort alone may often mean the difference between staying in business or selling out. When there is so much work involved, it pays to make a careful study to find short-cuts to greater efficiency.

ETNA ACTIVE

Catania, Sicily.- According to scientists, a new series of eruptions have opened two new craters atop Mount Etna.

The famous old volcano has been increasingly active during the past six months, after a period of quiet it began spewing steam and lava again recently.

Officials of Catania's Volcano Institute said a lava stream was coming from one of two new craters which have opened near the summit of the 10,758-foot mountain.

As yet the cultivated fields and hamlets, on the lower slope of the volcano appear to be in no danger.

Mismanagement Important Cause of Mastitis

Poor milking methods, including mismanagement of milking machines, are the greatest single cause of mastitis, according to scientists at VPI.

They say that actually mastitis is not a single disease but really the term used for many conditions. The word "mastitis" merely means an inflammation of the udder, and may refer to all injuries and inflammations of that organ.

At least 70% of all the mastitis in Virginia is man-made. And if dairymen will follow recommended managed-milking practices, milk production and profits will go up.

Some people have said that certain feeds or feeding practices will cause mastitis. Not so, the scientists say. They cite University of Illinois work, for instance, which clearly showed that heavy corn feeding does not cause mastitis. The Illinois workers also found no relation between amount of protein in the ration and abnormalities of the udder or of the milk. Both heavy corn feeding and high protein feeds have been blamed in mastitis cases.

Record-Keeping Plans

Several types of record - keeping plans are available to Virginia dairymen through county agricultural agents. Simplest and least expensive is the new Weigh-a-Day-a-Month plan, especially designed to meet the needs of the small operator who cannot afford to invest much time or expense in keeping records.
